CONTS BOX

By J. G. Whittier.

Heap high the farmer's winter hoard;
Heap high the golden corn;
No richer gift has autumn poured
From out her lavish horn.

Let other hands, exulting, glean
The apple from the pine;
The orange from its glossy green,
The cluster from the vine.

We better love the heavy gift
Our rugged values bow,
To cheer us when the storms shall drift
Our harvest fields with snow.

And now with autumn's moonlit eyes,
His harvest time is come,
We pluck away his frosty leaves
And bear its treasures home.

But let the good old corn adorn
The hills our fathers trod;
Still let us for this golden corn Send up our thanks to God.

More horses are spoiled by poor drivers than in any other way.

A chill brought on by the sudden coming in contact with the frosty ground may ruin your best cow.

It is just as important that every horse should have his own collar all the time as that a man should wear his own shoes.

Don't put off till spring any outside work that can be done now. Clean up the garden, haul out manure, and when possible push the plowing before snow lies.

Pedigree scrubs are the bane of the stock-breeding business, and need the attention of honest breeders of all classes of stock.

One of the greatest secrets in the successful keeping of horses is the furnishing of plenty of pure air and light.

The right amount of salt aids digestion and is a help in keeping the fowls strong and vigorous, but if given to excess will cause inflammation of the mucous membrane and bowel trouble.

If you would really know how an un-blanketed horse feels after violent exercise in cold weather take a brisk run of a mile or so and then stand where the cold wind will strike you for half an hour.

Good garden soil must be fine, filled with humus of the same kind to the depth of a fork or spade, dark in color and sweet. If your garden will not bear the test on every square foot, this fall is the time to amend the poor parts. Put into condition this fall. The frost will all.

The average depreciation of farm machinery is reckoned at 10 per cent per year. A machine shed will cut this cost at least one third, or extend the life of the average machine to fifteen years, where it is now thrown onto the scrap pile in ten years.

The silo practically increases the producing capacity of the farm at least 10 per cent and often more. A 100-acre farm with a silo will produce as much revenue as one of 180 acres without.
Therefore, the first cost of a silo—like that of a dwelling house, a barn or a team—should be considered part of the original investment. And, if one's capital is limited, it is better to buy a farm smaller by 10 per cent, rather than dispose with a silo.

The hens to lay well in cold weather must have plenty of exercise. If they are to be confined, give them a deep litter of straw to scratch in, and place the grain feed in this straw so they will scratch. Inactive hens will not lay. It is a good plan on the farm to allow the chickens the run of all the barn and stables during the day. They will do no damage at this time and will secure a lot of feed that would otherwise go to waste.
In securing it they will be compelled to exercise, which will promote laying.

The tramping of very wet ground by stock causes the soil to "poach" and puddle, and if it dries out in this condition the soil becomes baked and very hard, and in such a condition that it is almost impossible to pulverize it by any method of tillage. If ground in such a condition is plowed, either wet or dry, it is apt to remain in a bad physical condition for a long time, even for several years. If the surface is left exposed to freezing and thawing, the poached or puddled condition of the soil will be largely corrected.

In the new farming, deep plowing is practiced. The heavy traction plows bite deeper than the ordinary plowshare.

GATHERED UP.

People learn wisdom by experience. A man never wakes up his second baby to see it laugh.

Some men, like plate glass, make a good front, but are easily seen through.

If a young man isn't fired with enthusiasm over his job he may find himself fired with enthusiasm by his employer later.

It is much easier for us to forgive someone for being an enemy to our friends than for being a friend to our enemy.

I never had a man come to me for advice but before he got there he had more advice to offer than to ask for.

"Come to dinner, old man; we've got a new cook." "Sorry! I've an engagement today; but I'll come tomorrow." "No use, she leaves tomorrow."

Cohenstein (to his chauffeur)—Go slow on this road, it isn't built for telegraph poles! I chust got some stock in der Western Union!

Willing to Prove it—"It's a good thing you're so much bigger than I am. I would have given you a good one for daring to say that one cannot establish absolute equality among men."

Wet-Weather Chistians.—"Call—I suppose the rain affects your church attendant quite considerably?" Clergyman—Oh, yes, indeed. When it's too wet for golf or motoring there is hardly an empty seat.

"I know he's a darling, but I'm afraid it's no use—my husband doesn't like dogs."

"You buy 'im lady. You can casy get another husband, but you won't git another dog like 'im."

"I've lost the baby," shrieks the nurse-maid.

"Heavens! Why don't you hurry out and speak to a policeman?"

"It's no use, mum. That's what I was doin' when I lost the baby!"

A St. Louis travelling man, making his first trip through North Dakota, woke up one May morning to find the ground white with snow.

"O for heaven's sake," he asked the hotel clerk disgustedly, "when do you have Summer out in this forsaken country?"

"I don't know," replied the clerk. "I have been here only eleven months."

Max Muller, in his autobiography, says that the story of a man, which leaves out his faults, is like a picture deficient in shadows, and fails to bring out the bright points of his character. "We want to know his faults—that is probably the most interesting part of him," certainly often very helpful.

Once upon a time a very cool man called on his physician and asked him for medical advice.

"Take a tonic and dismiss from your mind all that tends to worry you," said the physician.

Several months afterward the patient received a bill from the physician asking him to remit three guineas, and answered it thus:

"Dear Doctor—I have taken a tonic and your advice. Your bill tends to worry me, so I dismiss it from my mind."

Moral—Advice sometimes defeats its giver.

An unexpected end has come to the trial of the McNamara brothers at Los Angeles for dynamiting the Times building at Los Angeles in which 21 human lives were sacrificed, and the Lowell Iron Works.
The case has already cost over $400,000 by the government and defense and the trial had hardly begun when the two men under arrest changed their plea of not guilty to guilty and took their sentence.
There have been 100 cases of dynamiting ostensibly for the same reason it is hardly surprising that the two men are the only ones concerned in the plot. There is scarcely an industry in the country but has organized labor in it and there are motives of greed in all of them with good men working for mutual benefit and improvement and it is now up to these men to join with the government and Law and Order Leagues in helping to suppress the lawlessness which has grown up in different parts of the country within the past few years.

Worcester officiated. The best man was Carl B. Kidder of North Weymouth, brother of the groom. The maid of honor was Miss Lillian E. Lyngquist, cousin of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Lillian V. Johnson, sister of the groom, and Miss Edith N. Lindquist, cousin of the bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Anna Ottoboni, and the ceremony took place beneath a lower of mountain laurel.
The bride was given away by her father.
She wore cream colored silk and tulle veil caught up with hyacinths and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and hyacinths. The bridesmaids wore light blue silk and carried white chrysanthemum bunches. The ushers were Charles Braman Jr. of Worcester and David Johnson of the bride's brother. A reception was held were served by Miss Esther and Jennie Swenson. Mr. and Mrs. Kidder were the recipients of many costly and beautiful

Social Club Supper and Entertainment.
The December Social club supper and entertainment was enjoyed last Wednesday evening by a goodly company of the members and their friends. Nearly eighty people sat down to supper, but as twenty young people who took part in the entertainment, were served with supper first, the company in the banquet room seemed smaller than usual. Mrs. Fred Harris was assisted.
After the supper one of the most enjoyable entertainments ever given under the auspices of the Social club was furnished by a company of twenty of the young ladies and young men. This was a series of living pictures of some of the most famous characters of Charles Dickens' stories, arranged most artistically by Miss Sophie Avery and Miss Faustine Brinkett.
The program consisted of twenty numbers and the characters were all well taken.
Last of all, the whole company came out before the audience and made a "grand bow." Miss Hazel Hamilton read a sympathetic of the story describing each character who was to appear. Round about the stage, the audience testified to the appreciation of the audience to one of the best entertainments ever given by the social club.

W. R. C. Notes.
At the next regular meeting of Reynolds W. R. C. No. 102, Tuesday afternoon Dec. 12, election of officers will be held. There has been a good increase in membership during the year. Supper will be served at 6:30. All Veterans are invited. Entertainment in the evening.
Norfolk County Association W. R. C. held its quarterly meeting Wednesday, Dec. 6, in Alpha Hall, Quincy, Mass.
There was a large attendance and the program was given by the Presidents of the County represented in this district.
The afternoon session held jointly with the G. A. R. and W. R. C. was very interesting and those present, numbering 250 or more will long remember the very vivid description given by Post Commodore, of his visit to Petersburg, Virginia, at the time of the dedication of the Massachusetts Monument in that place.
Many Department Officers were present all being called upon for remarks, and with vocal and instrumental music, readings and recitations provided by the Officers, plans and M. S. Orcutt, collectors. The program was a most successful one and the proceeds of the fair will be used for the purchase of a new organ for the church.

NO. 9.
Culture and the Voice.
[Written for the Gazette and Transcript.]
Have you ever noticed the influence for good or ill that the human voice exerts?
Mothers and teachers of children are often amazed at the emotion they are so fortunate as to stir up among certain charges by a harsh, stilted tone; and
are equally gratified by the calm they are able to produce with a soothing tone.
Nor are these effects less marked in older people; who are children, too, in a more complicated way. Just why it is we cannot say, but we know how certain certain voices stir up feelings and throw us out of gear, while to others we respond with the best that is in us.
Public speakers realize that it is often the tone, rather than the words themselves, which produce the results they are so fortunate as to stir up among certain charges by a harsh, stilted tone; and
are equally gratified by the calm they are able to produce with a soothing tone.

Shoe Industry.
Every indication in the shoe trade seems to point to increased values. Hides show marked strength, and leather prices are reflecting the situation.

Shoe factories are generally busy, but salesmen find it difficult to get orders because retailers are afraid of one another. They are uncertain as to the popular styles for 1912, and each is disinclined to order goods until he knows what the retail is ordering. The condition is unhealthy, and would not exist if the manufacturers and retailers were closer affiliated in the interests so vital to both.

The past few seasons have been damaging to the trade from the desire of retailers to have something "new" and the fact that manufacturers have catered to their desire. Now manufacturers are trying to lead dealers back to lines of a more stable trade. It is evident that tan lines are to be an important feature of the 1912 market, that there is to be an unusual demand for white boots and shoes of various materials, and that in all lines a decided preference will be expressed for all-leather goods.

The hesitancy of shoe buyers makes it unnecessary for manufacturers to buy leather beyond immediate needs. Orders placed now for future delivery are likely to be filled at lower prices than those placed later for immediate delivery.

Some manufacturers are now taking leather sufficient to cover their needs for the next two or three months. When buyers come later for spring goods they will naturally have to pay the appreciation on the materials put into the goods.

The tendency toward all-leather boots and shoes is not stopping the manufacture of fabric shoes. Quantities of such goods of various qualities are being made. A few years ago the demand for white canvas shoes was insistent. Now the demand is for white leather. The effort at one time was to make a cloth shoe that would look like a leather one. Now they have perfected a leather that has all the softness of cloth.

The consumer today has a wide field from which to choose shoes. For the worker in exposed situations the wooden shoe is winning favor. A shoe with entire soles of steel and leather tops meets another requirement. The combination of cloth top and rubber sole is a necessity. Cloth top and leather sole has been established as a staple for a long time, and now the cloth or leather top and sole of woven hemp is a recent effort to meet the new requirements and changing conditions.

Such shoes of white canvas or white buck are being turned out for next year's wear. It was stated some time ago that the coming shoe would show a return to the long effect. The short vamp has become debased into the hump toe, so now the leap backward has been taken, and some of the new goods for 1912 will have longer fore-parts, with ramps one-half an inch longer than the styles of this year. Heels will be lower; not much, to be sure, but enough to show the beginning of a back swing of the pendulum of fashion.

Lower heels should cause a slight saving to the manufacturer, but the continued high-top will offset such gain, for where eight square inches of leather may be saved on heels, twenty-four square inches of leather is needed in the additional height of the top.

The new spring goods now going through the factories show a diversity of materials, but white canvas and white buck leather are notable features. Tan calf is a strong favorite, but dull and shiny leathers have their friends, and velvets and satins of various colors are being cut into shoe tops. Boston Transcript.

A hearty dinner on Sunday
Is apt to make one feel,
There really is no earthly need
To get another meal.

But when the evening hour comes round,
There is a readiness
To answer to the supper bell,
And eat, we must confess.

Now light refreshments are enough
For all who would partake;
And we suggest that you provide A loaf of our Nut Cake.

Choice English Walnuts nicely mixed Will never fail to make;
With other choice ingredients
A fine nutritious cake.

Give the hens fresh water slightly warmed during the cold months.

Bare earth is much preferable to planks, bricks or stones for a henhouse floor.

No matter how good a horse is in its early life, its usefulness is cut short if it is not properly cared for. This is a serious loss.

When hens acquire the feather pulling habit they should be prepared for market at once, as it is almost impossible to stop them.

Keep the cows in clean yards during the day, and supply rations of food value to keep up the production of the herd to a paying point.

It should be remembered that a hog's coat of hair is not heavy nor of the kind to keep out extreme cold. Consequently it feels the changes in temperature most keenly.

Under no circumstances should an unhealthy bird be allowed a place in the breeding pen, since such can not fail to have an extremely injurious effect on the progeny.

Every time you set your feet on a weak, rickety ladder you risk life and limb. It wouldn't take half so long to mend a broken rod on the ladder as it would to mend a broken bone.

Any time from now till April is the time to spray the orchard with lime and sulphur to destroy the San Jose scale, which is liable to be found also on roses and a number of other ornamentals.

The important points to be considered in potato storing are as follows: First, the temperature should be kept as low as possible without freezing; second, the air should be kept as dry as possible; third the potatoes should be kept dark.

There are habits and traditions that survive from a former age; animals that were useful once, perhaps, that now need to be replaced by better types; crops that often even today may be out of place in that latitude and which ought to be supplanted by newer and better crops.

The woodlot is a very large factor in the production of the raw material which supports the fourth greatest industry of the country. Although the area of a single woodlot is small, the cuttings are more frequent than from the large timber tract and it is probable that the total amount of timber produced by woodlots is greater than that produced by timber tracts.

Soon be time for the tree agent. He appears shortly after Christmas and as a rule drives a flourishing trade. Buy fruit trees and set them out in the early spring. Every man with a bit of land should set out a tree or two each year. The result will be apparent in a short period of time.

Those who grow vegetables in large or small quantities may not know that the soil devoted to them manured and rough plowed in the fall will do better work than if all the preparation is done in the spring. There will be enough of the fine work to do in the spring, so why not do some of the coarse preparation now? Many things, such as rhubarb and asparagus, for example, are much helped by a protection of manure put on in the fall.

It is stated without contradiction that the food value in the corn plant is in the proportion of 55 percent in the fodder and 45 percent in the ears. These figures will seem incredible to those who have long believed that the fodder had little food value. The main difficulty in utilizing the corn fodder has been in such shape that the stock would be able to consume most of it. The modern shredder will accomplish this in a satisfactory manner and in most farming sections men are making a business of shredding the fodder for those who have no machines.

Composting is rather a hard job and requires a great deal of time. The compost heap should be made square and with perpendicular sides 4 or 5 feet high and as nearly flat on top as possible. The leaves may be composted with stable manure thoroughly mixed. Hen manure, cow manure and some lime will do no harm. If the heaps are made now the compost will be ready for use early next spring. It requires a long time for leaves to become thoroughly composted. The heap should be made under shelter, else the rains will wash away much of the valuable liquid. The compost heap can receive nearly everything—slops from the kitchen and old vegetables.

On account of the extremely strong odors given off by cabbages they should not be stored even in small quantities in the house cellar. Dig a pit four feet wide and deep enough to hold four or five cabbages, and any length desired. A layer of clean, dry straw or cornstalks should cover the bottom to the depth of three or four inches. Remove the stems and all outer leaves and pack them stem end up, stopping them above ground to a peak. Cover with straw and earth to the depth of six or eight inches. If they freeze, so much the better, only then they should be covered with more earth or manure to hold them in that condition. The great essentials in safe keeping are to keep them dry and at a low and steady temperature as possible.

WHY WOMEN SUFFER.

Many Weymouth Women are Learning the Cure.

Women often suffer, not knowing the cause. Backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness, irregular urinary passages, weakness, languor—each a seeming torture of itself. Together tell of weakened kidneys. Strike at the root—get to the cause. Quickly give the kidneys the help they need. No remedy endorsed like Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's convincing proof from this locality.

Mrs. G. McDonald, 276 Water street, Quincy, Mass., says: "When I used Doan's Kidney Pills in 1908 the results were so satisfactory that I publicly recommended the remedy. That statement still holds good. I felt all out of sorts for at least six months, and was at a loss to know what ailed me. I had but little energy to attend to my household and my back was painful and weak. An acquaintance heard me complain and suggested that probably my kidneys were disordered, advising me to take Doan's Kidney Pills. I did so, and they soon fixed me up in good shape, making me feel like an entirely different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Bulletin on Feed Stuffs.

The Massachusetts Agricultural Experiment Station has issued its annual bulletin on feed stuffs at the very beginning of the feed season instead of later as heretofore in the hope that it will be henceforward more useful by those using purchased feeds. All those who have farm live stock of any kind who will find in this bulletin much information of value. It gives the analyses of all important feeding stuffs (those for poultry included) offered for sale in the Massachusetts market; it discusses their relative values; and includes a tabulated list of wholesale prices. Reference to this bulletin should enable all buyers of commercial feed stuffs to purchase more intelligently and wisely. The bulletin will be sent on application, Address Experiment Station, Amherst, Mass.

A Christmas Song.

Come wealth or want, come good or ill,
Let young and old accept their part,
And bow before the awful Will,
And bear it with an honest heart.
Who misses or who wins the prize,
Go, lose or conquer as you can;
But if you fail or if you rise,
Be each, pray God, a gentleman.

A gentleman, or old or young (Bear kindly with my humble lays)
The sacred chorus first was sung
Upon the first of Christmas days.

The shepherds heard it overhead—
The joyful angels raised it then,
Glory to heaven on high, it said,
And peace on earth to gentle men.

My song, save this, is little worth;
I lay the weary pen aside,
And wish you health and love and mirth,
As fits the solemn Christmas tide.

As fits the holy Christmas birth, Be this, good friends our carol still—
Be peace on earth, be peace on earth,
To men of gentle will.

—Thackeray.

Big Salary Explained.

"And how is your excellent son, the divinity student? He graduated from the theological academy about a year ago, I believe?" "Yes, just a year ago. And he's doing so well! They pay him a wonderfully large salary and next year he's to get more." "Indeed! That's very unusual. Perhaps it is his excellent delivery that nets him the large emolument." "Yes, that's the one of the pitchers in the big league."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A FRENCH CALENDAR.

The One That Was Adopted During the Revolution.

In the French revolution the national convention adopted a new calendar containing twelve months of thirty days each. The five days in the year thus left were disposed of by making them "festivals." The months were named after the seasons, February, March, Vendémiaire, Brumaire, Frimaire, Nivôse, Pluviose, Ventose, Germinal, Floreal, Prairial, Messidor, Thermidor and Fructidor.

Each of these names had a meaning. Instead of naming a month meaninglessly after a heathen god, as we name January after Janus and March after Mars, the names represented the special characteristics of the month. Fructidor, for instance, which includes the part of what we call September, means "the fruit month." Germinal, the first of the spring months, running from the first of March to the middle of April, means "the month of buds," and Floreal, which follows it, the "flower" or "flowering" month.

Thermidor, which means the "hot month," is the month which under the republican calendar included part of July and part of August. The political significance of the word arises from the fact that the revolution which overthrew Robespierre and ended the reign of terror occurred on the 9th of the month of Thermidor, or, as we should say, July 27, 1794. It is called "the revolution of Thermidor," as we speak of "the September massacres," and the revolutionists were nicknamed "Thermidorians." The inventor of the calendar was Robespierre.

Tuesday evening was a "big night" with the members of Safety Lodge No. 96 New England Order of Protection, when a class initiation was held and 48 candidates initiated. The local degree staff was assisted by Grand Secretary Eben S. Hinkley of Boston. Delegations attended from several of the lodges in this vicinity as well as District Deputy Agnes E. The very newest spark of novelty and interest in a charming combination of the picturesque and romantic in music was offered last Friday evening, December 8th in the Pilgrim church by the Tyrolean Alpine singers. Clad in their native costumes, these artists brought home to the audience the music of the mountains, pulsating with life and throbbing with human sympathy. The scene enacted on the stage was a reproduction of a chapter of Alpine life. One of the most enjoyable features was the solo work. That exquisite form of mountain singing which reverberates in echoes from cliff to cliff and is known the world over as "yodling" found a fascinating exponent in Fraulein Gross, a high soprano of most remarkable range of voice. Other soloists were presented and their selections were full of that individual charm and humor of which the Tyrolean Alpine singers alone seem to be capable. Miss Cora Goss of the Band, a reader of genuine ability gave several selections which were very pleasing.

The regular meeting of the Universalist Men's club will be held in the church vestry next Monday evening, December 18th.

Money Talks.
Money talks in many voices; money talks in many a measure;
To seductively it sings the siren song
Of pleasure and of ease;
To one it speaks of power; to one it cranks
Of greed;
And all the while it talks it gives it
Two much heed.

Listen to the call of money—listen through the busy years—
And no other voice can ever reach your soul—
The still, small voice of conscience can never stir the soul
While the louder voice of money is urging to its goal.

You will heed no call of honor, if you
heed the call of self;
You will heed no call of country, if you
heed the call of self;
Money talks in many voices; if you give it
Two much heed.

You will hear no other accents than the voice of gold and greed.
Wex Jones.

Make Right Use of Money.
Money is subtle and ridiculous, according to the man who has it.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Moment I Loved.

The crucial moment had arrived and I think my heart actually stopped beating as I stood gazing helplessly at the woman before me.

"I am anxious to be rid of me," I asked, ashamed of the words even as I uttered them.

"That remark is unworthy of you," she said, and she looked at me with a steady gaze that made me feel that I was in the presence of a great power.

"Your interest then is personal to me, may I believe?"

"I am a loyal woman," I proudly declared, and would do nothing whatever to bring my country into disrepute.

"I am, in a measure, responsible for it," I said, and in response to my own words, I felt a sudden glow of pride.

"Have you formulated any plan?" she asked quickly, and her rising color made me feel that she had deciphered my struggle in my eyes.

"Only the plan of my own life," I said, and in the moment of my own life, I felt a sudden glow of pride.

"I fear it cannot be done without arousing suspicion," she said at last, slowly. "I chance to know there are unusual precautions being taken tonight, and the entire camp is doubly guarded."

"I am sure for the present from my mysterious spell," she said at last, slowly. "I chance to know there are unusual precautions being taken tonight, and the entire camp is doubly guarded."

"I beg you, I began, 'do not compromise yourself in any way for my sake.'"

"I am myself already deeply involved in this," she interrupted, "and I could retain no peace of mind were I to do otherwise. Now listen. Make this evening of your own."

"If there were chairs here I should venture to ask even a greater favor," she said, and she looked at me with a steady gaze that made me feel that I was in the presence of a great power.

"You would consent to sit out this set with me?"

"I would be exceedingly angry if I were to ask you to dance?"

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Never cut a limb from a tree unless you know just why you do it.

An experienced pruner knows the direction of growing branches and prunes accordingly.

Always buy clean, healthy trees with short stems, and even if they do not bear fruit, they will be worth the price.

Those farmers who have plots to feed their stock this winter (whether they have a silo or not) are lucky.

Items that produce not only a goodly number of eggs but eggs of moderate size (weighing a space each on an average), Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons and Leghorns or Minorcas that are laid on egg farms, are varieties for the best eggs.

All the rain that percolates down into the earth comes to the surface again somewhere. It goes down and it comes up, through which it can pass, and so more water is coming down and pressing upon it, it has to find a way to escape to the surface. In this underground trip it takes up from rocks the salts that are useful to the life of plants and animals.

While a frost bite is not serious, the results certainly are at times. Let a good breeding bird get a badly frosted comb or wattle, and there is immediate loss of fertility in the eggs; the bird is practically useless as a breeder until well again. It is cruelly to allow frozen wattles to be neglected until they slough off. A male bird that is not needed in the breeding pens or is not being kept for sale, should never be held over winter.

It stands to reason if a man carefully prunes his apple trees in late fall, and tends to the crop, giving it every attention and every chance to make the best crop possible, he is going to have a more profitable harvest than the man who puts in 100 acres or more, sowing seed cultivating in a slipshod manner, then going away upon a pleasure tour, giving the crop a chance to take care of itself and never bothering his head until harvest time.

In our country we find a man who is a land owner and is running a farm, and he is standing in springs and running brooks, where succulent food is given through a large part of the year as possible. Without doubt the increasing use of ensilage as winter feed for cows will in time have an appreciable effect in breeding a race that will be better milkers than could have been possible under other conditions.

"It is necessary that a great campaign of education be inaugurated at once with reference to conservation of the soil, just as there has been a campaign of education with reference to the conservation of the forests," says President Van Hise.

"The task is an enormous one, indeed, vastly greater than that carried on with reference to our other resources, because of the fact that the land holdings are so subdivided. But the campaign of education must be carried on, and as a part of it, the laws must be developed, until we reach the situation where no man dares so to handle his land as to decrease its fertility.

THE GARDEN.

This is the month when you should plan how much better you are going to make the garden for the new year than your last year's garden.

Get the seedmen's catalogues, which they have ready to send you on application, and plan your work systematically, right away, so that when the time for planting comes you will know just what you want to do and just how you are going about it.

You can't have a perfectly successful garden without planning it out beforehand. If you don't get out your planning scheme now and have it recorded on paper you may be too busy to do it properly later.

With your plan on paper, draw it to scale. Arrange, in the first place, to plant a sufficient number of rows of the vegetables which are commonly grown and with which you are more or less familiar.

Get hold of a good planting table. The one published in March, 1908, Suburban Life, will do nicely, if you have that copy on file. Otherwise, there are late planting tables of similar nature now published in book and pamphlet form.

Try this year a few rows of vegetables with which you are unfamiliar. You may find some new vegetables which will both interest you and be profitable for the time you put into growing them.—Suburban Life.

"Dear me," said Mrs. Housewife, with a deep sigh, "I can't manage to keep a cook a week."

Mrs. Housewife looked surprised. "I don't see the connection," she said.

"It's simple enough. He now swears at her in French instead of English. It gives him a vent for his temper, some valuable practice—and the cook thinks he's making love to her!"—Satire.

A train in Arizona was boarded by robbers, who went through the pockets of the luckless passengers. One of them happened to be a traveling salesman from New York, who, when his turn came, flashed out $200, but rapidly took $4 from the pile and placed it in his vest pocket.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the robber, as he toyed with his revolver. Hurriedly came the answer: "Mine friend, you surely would not refuse me two per cent discount on a strictly cash transaction like this?"—Fun.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED.

Automobile Leaps Over Bank at Central Square Last Sunday Evening.

Three men from out of town narrowly escaped serious injury last Sunday night about 6:30 o'clock, in Central Square, East Weymouth, when the automobile they were in dashed across the lawn of Clifton Clapp and rolled over a ten foot embankment onto the land of Arthur Hamlin.

The automobile came tearing up Broad street and upon nearing Central Square, one of the party, it is said, cautioned the driver that he was nearing a corner, necessary to turn to get to North Weymouth. The car dashed by the corner and when just past J. C. Nolan's store, the driver turned to the right, supposing he was turning into a street. At full speed it is said by an eye witness, the auto raced across the lawn in front of the house next to J. C. Nolan's owned by Clapp. Between Clapp's estate and the property owned by Arthur Hamlin, is a ten foot bank. Over the bank went the auto, but by a rare streak of good luck, did not overturn.

People in the vicinity rushed to the rescue of the three occupants of the car and after a while the car was put back into the road, where after an examination, it was found to be in running order and the men departed on their way. None of the men were seriously hurt, although they were given a severe shaking up and one of the party received several bruises.

Next Monday those of us who are alive will begin a New Year, 1912, and we take this occasion to wish all our friends and patrons a Happy New Year. We have but one special suggestion to make in regard to "New Year's Resolutions," and that is that each of us should make this year, then follow it and all other articles of the same kind and 1912 will be a good year barring events over which you have no control.

The legislature of 1911 passed more than the usual number of laws and Resolutions, some of them were new, some were amendments, and some were amendments to laws already on the books. We give to our young people as a possible help in making their matrimonial arrangements.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. Section eleven of the chapter one hundred and fifty-one of the Revised Laws, is hereby amended by inserting after the word "shall," in the second line, the words "not less than five days," so as to read as follows:—Section 16. Persons who intend to be joined in marriage in this commonwealth shall not less than five days before their marriage, cause notice of their intention to be entered in the office of the clerk or registrar of the city or town in which the marriage is to be solemnized.

SECTION 2. Section twenty-three of said chapter one hundred and fifty-one is hereby amended by inserting at the beginning thereof the words:—After the expiration of five days from the date of the entry of such intention, so as to read as follows:—Section 23. After the expiration of five days from the date of the entry of such intention, the clerk or registrar shall deliver to the parties a certificate signed by him, specifying the time when notice of the intention of marriage was entered with him and all facts relative to the marriage which are required by law to be ascertained and recorded, except those relating to the person by whom the marriage is to be solemnized. Such certificate shall be delivered to the minister or magistrate before whom the marriage is to be solemnized, and he shall present it to the commissioner of the State.

SECTION 7. This act shall take effect on the first day of January, nineteen hundred and twelve. (Approved July 19, 1911.)

GRIM STORY OF MISSIONARY

Converts Dyak, Forced by Sweet heart to Hunt Heads, Brought Those of Her Relatives.

The missionary ligated a fresh of gar.
"Yes," he said, "I have seen grim happenings in my time. The grim-most, I suppose, occurred among the Dyak head hunters.

"We had converted a young Dyak, and the lad had abandoned head hunting forever. But he met a girl, a beautiful girl, and with a Jew's the missionary shook his head and sighed.

"The girl listened to his wooing, for he was a handsome lad, but, smothered hands to a Dyak maid are what swell her to a chorus girl, and with a Jew's of the lip she said:
"You vow you love me, but you bring me no heads to prove it."
"But I am a Christian," he replied.
"When did a Dyak wooer ever go a wooing without heads?" said she.
"You are not a man; you are a girl!"
The young convert, around his head and left her. The next morning early he staggered into her presence with bloodshot eyes. There was a bag on his shoulder.

"You asked for heads," he said.
"Look!"
And he emptied from the bag onto the floor the heads of her father and her two brothers!

The missionary smiled sadly.
"That wasn't playing the game," he said. "It's the heads of enemies that the head hunter must bring in, not the heads of one's own brother tribesmen. They shut the young convert in a slatted cage of bamboo to starve to death. He died under his sweet-heart's eye."

NO. 12.

A New Year's Resolve.

[Written for the Gazette and Transcript.]
We are all familiar with the slogan, "Back to the land!" which has been echoing through the corridors of time for several years. It is a wise advice and it has had its followers, both men and women, who have swung back from the artificial humdrum of city life to the more primitive and natural life of the country.

Of course it had to come. The crowding of people into cities tended to increase the cost of living, to multiply nervous disorders, and to leave unutilized a great many acres from which should be growing the food for the race.

There is to be an irresistible force that rights such tendencies as these; and the ingan to work for the restoration of agriculture to its proper dignity and of man to his natural life. Such a grip has this force upon men that you would be surprised, unless you have already tried it, to see how many business men cherish a secret, but persistent, hope that some day they may throw off the grinding routine and return to the land.

Now, within a few months there has been heard another slogan which contains exactly as good advice as the first. It is,
"Cut down your acreage; double your culture."

As an immediate result of this we find men competing to see who can raise the largest crop of corn on an acre of land.
Intensive farming is becoming the fad.
The farmer is being urged to benefit to the land itself as well as to the farmer.

Not all of us are farmers, however; so we may be tempted to pass this advice by as not pertaining to us. But wait! See if it does not apply to other arts as well as to agriculture.

As you engaged in half a dozen activities, expected to this for one, and that for another, till you find that life is one mad rush and that you neither give to or get from any of them what you would like to? Then, why should not you "cut down your acreage and double your culture?" Surely two or three things well done are better than many things half done.

We lose in efficiency scattering our efforts. We gain in power by concentration.

Applying this to our reading, we shall greatly increase our enjoyment of the good things prepared for us on the printed page. "Reading makes a full man," but promiscuous reading will leave our minds in the condition of some garrets we have seen,—full enough, in all conscience, but so disordered that nothing can be found when we need it.

Systematic reading, on the contrary, leaves us with a few definite ideas on which we can lay our hand at any moment. We have not as much useless rubbish in our heads and what is there is ready for use.

If you are in the habit of reading a book every fortnight, or twenty-six books a year, begin this year to cut down your acreage and double your culture. That is read your first book, (preferably a good novel), then read some solid work on the same subject.

Cutting down the acreage does not mean any less work; it means the same amount of work applied to a smaller range of subjects. It means more attention paid to a few good things and less of the slipshod, diffusive work that is more than half wasted.

Let the New Year begin with a definite plan for doubling the culture. But the plan does not lie in black and white; and then give it a fair trial, and see if it pays to read along one acreage and double your culture.

Monday Club.

The meeting of the Monday club on January first will be something of a social event, as, in honor of the day, the committee have arranged an especially attractive program and many invited guests are expected. Miss Ethel N. Shumway, always a favorite, will speak on "Days in Venice" and the Harvard Trio will sing. Mrs. George H. Ballou is in charge of the social of that day.

Water—Water.

The appealed case of the Water Board vs. Alvin Hollis for violation of regulations was tried before a jury in the Supreme court at Dedham on Wednesday and a verdict rendered sustaining the fine and ruling of the lower court. Mr. Hollis through his counsel took an appeal and the case will probably go to the Supreme court.

At the meeting last night of Crescent Lodge I. O. O. F. the annual election of officers was held and resulted as follows: Noble Grand, Frank E. Turrell; Vice Grand, Harry E. Brown; recording secretary, Clayton B. Merchant; financial secretary, James B. French; treasurer, Hiram B. Raymond and trustee for three election, the initiatory degree, was worked on a candidate.

THIS IS CERTAIN.

The Proof That Weymouth Readers

Cannot Deny

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills.
They now confirm their testimonials.
They say time has completed the test.

Mrs. O. Binney, 17 Norfolk street, Weymouth, Mass., says: "For ten years I was a sufferer from backache and rheumatic pains. I spent a small fortune for medicine and doctors' prescriptions, but with little or no result. I had heard a number of people say that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured them of backache, and I was led to get a supply of this remedy at Kempt's Drug Store. Before I had finished the contents of the box I had improved, and by the time I had used five boxes I had no further cause for complaint." (Statement given September 4, 1908.)

A CONFIRMED ENDORSEMENT.

On August 11, 1911 Mrs. Binney said:
"I willingly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. I am now enjoying good health."

CHRISTMAS EVENTS.

The Whole World Celebrates the Birth of the Christ Child.

Weymouth was alive to the spirit of the times and following are some of the events of the week:
UNION CHURCH, SOUTH WEYMOUTH.
The annual Christmas festival of the Sunday school department was held in the church vestry last Friday evening. A well arranged musical program was rendered, followed by refreshments. After these features gifts were distributed from a large tree and games were enjoyed.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, EAST WEY-MOUTH.
The Christmas celebration under the auspices of the Sunday school was held last Friday evening in the vestry of the church. The program consisted of recita-to represent different countries, these being: Poland, Serbia, Denmark, Norway, China, Italy, Syria, Norway, Belgium, Switzerland, Cuba, Ceylon, Spain, Poland, Holland, Greece, Turkey, and Lorraine, France; Beatrice, the young

Commons was kindly rendered by his wife, Mrs. Commons, and a nurse of $15 to the celebration was in charge of Miss Grace Mitchell.

An unusually large audience listened to an excellent Christmas service at the church last Sunday morning. The story of the Christ Child and His influence on the world as told by the pastor was followed with interest. The musical program was of a high order and much enhanced by assistance rendered the choir by Mrs. Harold W. Joy, soprano and Miss Hazel F. Clark, violinist. The church was very beautifully decorated by Mrs.
Charles Blackwell, and the service was used came from North Carolina and was
